Exploring the vast natural treasures of the Blackstone River Valley is a snap with our colorful Watchable Wildlife DeTours. Experience winter's crystalline blues, summer's vibrant greens or autumn's rich burgundies. The sweep of the river and its wetlands offer scenic views and an abundance of wildlife. Whether touring by land or sea, the rewards are plenty. The Audubon's Fort Nature Refuge offers nature walks and the guided evening "Owl Prowl" for the adventurous. Powder Mill Ledges offers educational workshops or family fun favorites like the Butterfly Count. Explore the trails, ponds and marsh habitats of the management areas and you're likely to find coyotes or cottontails among the avian life. The Lonsdale Marshes are populated by a variety of birds in all of seasons, hooded Mergansers, Teal, Heron and mixed duck breeds. Summer avian life includes wading birds, songbirds, and woodpeckers. Launch your vessel from the Central Falls Landing on Madeira Avenue or walk/bike along the Blackstone River Bikeway (www.blackstoneriverbikeway.com). Dawn to dusk, it's FREE, and remember to bring your binoculars and please respect feeding habits.

FORT NATURE REFUGE, a 235-acre mixed woodland with ponds and dams proves that Audubon is not just for the birds. Different seasons can yield sightings of birds, beavers, deer, fox, rabbits and other wildlife, as well as frogs and salamanders in the vernal pool. Cooper's Hawk, Broad-winged Hawk, Turkey, and a wide distribution of songbirds intrigue visitors with calls.

DURFEE HILL comprises acres of mixed forest and wetlands. The Burlingame Reservoir here has habitat for snowshoe hares, wood ducks, mixed game and woodcock.

POWDER MILL LEDGES/AUDUBON HEADQUARTERS AND REFUGE is a 120 acre refuge with fine stands of pines, a pond and a brook where Golden and Ruby crowned Kinglets, White and Red breasted Nuthatches and woodpeckers are active in winter. In spring, eastern Bluebirds and Tree Swallows nest in boxes and abundant songbirds raise young in the habitats of the refuge. Library and office hours M-F, 9-5; Sat 12-4. Refuge open dawn to dusk daily. There is a fee for certain programs.

For detailed information, call the Audubon Society Of Rhode Island located at Powder Mill Ledges, 12 Sanderson Rd., Smithfield, RI 02917, 401-949-5454 or visit www.asri.org.
